

THE DAILY BEE.

ROSEWATER, EDITOR. GOLWING SMITH says that intemperance is visibly decreasing in Canada. So is the population.

JUDGE LAMBERT TREE of Chicago, is worth $4,000,000. He is the most valuable tree in the United States.

PENNSYLVANIA'S legislature has refused to pass the A. J. license law, which has been a subject of contention for two months past.

In reference to the monopolies' threat of oppression by a perversion of the railroad law, the people significantly say: "Doane do it, unless you wish to take the consequences."

It must be an unpleasant surprise for the editor of the Herald, after all his howling for cross-walks and against sewers, to discover that the only object for which the city can vote bonds is for sewerage purposes.

According to a fashion writer "the latest pattern for a button is a devil playing on a tambourine with a background of stars behind him." Brady and Dorsy have ordered him.

NEW ORLEANS is enjoying a genuine revival of business. Real estate is booming, the levees are filled with cotton, the barges line are bringing capital into the city and there is talk of abolishing all port charges in order to compete more thoroughly with New York for the ocean trade.

UNDER Secretary Windom's plan of extending the 21 sixes at 3 per cent, all but $25,000,000 of the outstanding bonds have been refunded at a cost to the government of less than $2,000,000. Over $4,000,000 a year in interest has been saved to the government and the treasury has at its command a handsome surplus reserve with which to call in the five per cents.

THE Marquis of Salisbury has been appointed as leader of the Tory party in England, to succeed the late Lord Beaconsfield. As a party leader Lord Salisbury is bold, aggressive, unscrupulous and tricky; so that there is no telling what plans he may adopt. His tactics are those of the free lance. He excelled Lord Beaconsfield as the apostle of expediency and inconsistency.

The appeal of the Jews in New York to the state legislature for equal rights of citizens in places of public resort is a painful commentary on our boasted civilization. England has hardly ceased mourning over a great parliamentary leader and statesman, whose proudest boast was his Jewish extraction. The signs on hotels and theaters, "No Hebrews need apply," should cause a blush to mantle the face of every patriotic American citizen.

THE actual cost of freighting a bushel of wheat from Chicago to New York, via the lakes and Erie canal, is 85-100 cents; from Chicago to Montreal the freight is 10-25-100 cents. On the latter route the recent modification of tolls on the Welland and St. Lawrence canals will still further reduce the cost of transportation. Harbor dues have also been reduced at Montreal. The Canadians are making strenuous efforts to secure a share of western traffic. This rivalry will, no doubt, bring about the abolition of tolls on the Erie canal as a necessary means of retaining the grain trade of New York.

TEN years ago American products, industries and manufactures were contemptuously looked down upon by Europeans and universally derided in value. It was the rule rather than the exception to denounce whatever came from this country, and to couple the denunciation with innuendoes about "Yankee cuteness," "woolen nutmegs," "hasswood ham," and all that sort of thing. But this period has gone by. To such a degree of excellence have American goods attained, that now it is the ordinary thing to find English, French, and especially German manufactured goods in the markets prepared and labeled for the express purpose of deceiving purchasers with the pretense that they are the products of the United States. These imitations take in goods of all kinds, among which may be mentioned household furniture, kitchen accoutrements, heating apparatus, gas and water fixtures, agricultural implements and all sorts of manufactures, including clothing, boots, shoes, hats and caps. To these may be added canned fruits and meats, condensed milk, desiccated vegetables, prepared soups, essences of food, hams, bacon, cheese and butter. In the short space of ten years America has outstripped all foreign competitors in the race for improvement and at the present time there exists abroad a decided preference in favor of American goods and manufactures.

This preference, Mr. Cook, our consul at Cork, declares may be extended to an almost limitless extent if the producers of the United States will only join in driving spurious goods out of the European markets by honestly improving the quality of the genuine ones, and by an intelligent, vigorous and concerted representation of the benefits, excellencies, economy and comforts of the latter.

In a recent letter to the State Department, Mr. Brooks advises that our producers should not content themselves with the mere establishment of a few agencies in foreign ports. He believes that our numerous specific commercial and business associations, boards of trade, and chambers of commerce, as well as strong local organizations of the same character, should take hold of this matter as regards their several lines, and make free use of traveling agents, lecturers, circulars, newspaper subsidies, and other means, not forgetting the officially-protected pamphlet. He says that under intelligent management, for instance the furniture makers of Michigan, the boot and shoe manufacturers of New England, the agricultural implement makers of Ohio, or kindred organizations, might expend $100,000,000, if not a larger sum, in such an experiment, with comparatively trifling cost to individuals in interest, but with the certainty of speedy and

The railroads of Nebraska may accept the friendly invitation of Mr. Rosewater and his crowd of malcontents to make the Doane law so oppressive to themselves as to lose money thereby, just for the sake of pleasing their devoted enemies. But if they do they will be weak in all that constitutes good judgment and good management as their antagonists are strong in all that is most successful and most destructive to the interests of Nebraska.—Republican.

This outspoken intention of the monopolies is "put the screws on the grangers" is at least timely. It is well for the people of this state to understand beforehand what further expressions at the hands of the railroads which may be in store for them, are not an account of legislative defects or necessities of trade, but simply because the monopolies intend to touch the "Grangers" a lesson and do not propose to have their "profits" diminished by "antagonists" who are strong in all that is most non-sensical and most destructive to the interests of Nebraska. In other words it is well for the producers, the shippers and tax payers of this state to appreciate at once the fact that the gage of battle is boldly thrown down by the monopolies and that the issue is clearly and defiantly made between the rule of the railroads and the rule of the people. The taunt of "Grangerism," which is hurled at the head of every citizen who refuses to bow his head to the monopoly yoke, will be willingly borne by a vast number of Nebraska. They are not disposed to quibble about terms, they mean to wrestle with facts. They understand precisely what the monopolies intend to do and their own course is clear. If the railroads think for a moment that a general raising of through tariffs on the basis of the present exorbitant local tariff will frighten the people of this state into submission to their will, they are grievously mistaken. Such a course they may possibly pursue for two years, in accordance with the letter, but in defiance of the spirit of the Doane law. But let them understand at the very outset that they are defying an element in Nebraska which is composed of eight-tenths of the voters of this state, an element which they have heretofore failed to bribe and which cannot be intimidated or frightened from their position.

The Doane law purposely refrained from fixing tariffs on the railroads and left a wide latitude for the monopolies managers in which to adjust their rates to the new order of things. But if this mercy of the people towards their oppressors is abused, if the railroads in the face of a public sentiment which is daily becoming more overwhelming insist on continuing a course of extortion and plunder which the Doane law was passed to check, we confidently predict that the next session of the legislature will take away from the monopolies every vestige of those privileges which the people have granted them and which have been so shamefully and outrageously abused.

The Farmers' Alliance will be supported by anti-monopoly leagues of merchants, laborers and professional men in every city, town and village in Nebraska and the railroads will reap the full benefit of their bold and arrogant defiance of the people of this state. It is high time that those creatures of the people should understand that they are not the rulers of their creators, and if they wish to be brought to a saving knowledge of this fact, let them try upon the "Grangers" of this state a general raising of tariff rates, under the shadow of pretense that they are only enforcing the law passed by the late legislature.

A lady writes: "One thing which I think that ladies have a right to ask is that gentlemen in a horse car should keep their feet on the floor instead of rubbing the mud off of them against the dresses of the ladies as they pass in and out."

The coloring of hair has been almost abandoned this season, and it is rarely that a bleached blonde is seen. Hair is left as nature colored it and even gray hair is not concealed. The only decided fashion for dressing the hair this spring is the addition of curls to the coiffure. Bunches of curls are worn at the nape of the neck.

A bonnet with one string is one of the milliner novelties of this season. The string is long and wide, handsomely trimmed at the end, and is passed under the chin and attached to a pendant spray of flowers and ribbons on the other side, which does the duty of a string. The fashion of tying the bonnet strings at the back will be in vogue with summer bonnets.

Now that through fear of malaria stationary wash bowls are going out and the old-fashioned wash stands coming in, there appear pitchers that are wide of base and strong of handle and basins big enough for a baby's bath-tub, and it is the thing to have them decorated on a cream ground.

The black lace caps are very pretty, and will be in great demand when the warm weather approaches. The new city lace cap with hood lined with a delicate collar, a very valuable and delicate item.

The pretty and dainty-looking apron has been taking hold in favor, and become quite a favorite addition to an indoor dress. To young ladies they add a spice of coquetry, to young married ladies a domestic charm that is very attractive. The prettiest are of light German linen, embroidered with an artistic design, but they also look well made of any delicate material and trimmed with lace.

Two ladies, handsomely dressed, entered a car. A gentleman rose and offered one of them a seat. She said to the other lady: "Dear, you take it. I am very tired, but you are much more tired than I am." The other said: "No, dear, you look so weary, and I can't rob you of it." Then another gentleman rose, took the two seats, and one said: "What a lovely time we have had. I feel so much brighter for running out," while the other replied: "I haven't felt so well for ages. Shopping is a great pleasure. I'm all in a glow."

"When we are old, Glanvile, we shall still be lovers," she said, gazing into his eyes with the rapture of a gifted woman who writes poetry for the Boston papers. "The warm hues of your youthful affection shall never fade, but only grow brighter as we draw nearer to the sunset. We shall still sit out in the bush of the summer eve and feed our souls on the poetry of the stars, shall we not?" "Well, hardly," answered Glanvile, "unless you want me to remain till day break bathing your old back with arnica." Then she bit off a fresh chunk of chewing-gum, and the only sound that broke the silence was the crunching of her gold-plugged molars.

This is conclusive proof of the inferiority of the latter sex. "A woman will take the smallest drawer in a bureau for ever, private use, and will store it in dainty fragments of ribbon, scraps of lace, fanny ruffles, old love letters, pieces of jewelry, handkerchiefs, fans and things that no man looks the name of; all sorts of fresh-looking, light little articles that you could not catalogue, succeed in robbing the home club of the game. When the home club wins the umpire is a cultured gentleman and the opposing nine a combination of gifted young men who were temporarily unfortunate.

The maddest man in Nebraska is a saloon keeper at Lincoln. He had been buying lottery tickets, and some lottery "put up a job" on him by publishing a fictitious telegram in the local paper that the number held by him had drawn a $15,000 prize. His bar soon flew to the sky, and all the loafers in town got drunk at his expense. It was a very difficult matter to convince him that he had not drawn the prize, so strong was his faith in the lottery, but he will never again believe a word he sees in print.

A contemporary wishes to revise one portion of the New Testament as follows: If a man smite you on one cheek turn up the other; the other also send in a good one from the shoulder while he is off guard.

The miracle-performing priest at Erie, Pa., has been exposed by a press reporter. Now that he is shown to be a fraud, the people who announced themselves cured by him have all noticed a return of their old afflictions.

We have never seen a finer bit of sarcasm than the following: A little French boy, who is the child of saying his prayers before going to bed, the other night asked his mother: "Mamma, how long will it be before you are big enough to quit saying your prayers? You never say yours, do you?" And the mother said: "Let the boys shouldn't ask so many questions. Go to sleep, my child."

It is significant of the change which is going on over the European continent of life and morality that at the present moment nearly every legalizing divorce in Europe is more or less prolegatory to a marriage question. In Hungary they have just legalized the marriage of Jews and Christians, and are discussing the introduction of obligatory civil marriage. In Denmark a bill is pending which has been the rearrangement of divorced persons. In Spain the Sagasta ministry is busied about the re-establishment of the divorce law. Mr. Napier's bill for legalizing divorce was defeated a short time ago by the French chamber.

It is now dealing with the proposed legalizing of marriage of heathens, and their sister-law and the marriage of priests. In Italy the divorce question has been brought before the legislature by a proposal to separate the couple when the husband or wife has been condemned to penal servitude for life, and to convert a legal separation into a divorce when the husband or wife has been convicted of adultery, or when the husband or wife has been convicted of adultery, or when the husband or wife has been convicted of adultery, or when the husband or wife has been convicted of adultery.

WHAT WE HATE. We hate growling, no matter the source or cause, and recommend here with the remedy. Use St. Jacob's Oil and every time. It will do the work every time.—(St. Paul Pioneer Press.)

Almost Crazy. How often do we see the hardworking father straining every nerve and muscle, and doing his utmost to support his family. Imagine his feelings when he returns home from a hard day's labor, to find his family prostrate with disease, conscious of unpaid doctor's bills and debts on every hand. It is not enough to drive a man crazy. All his unhappiness could be avoided by using Electric Bitters, which expel every disease from the system, bringing joy and happiness to thousands. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by J. & C. McMahon. (4)

GREATEST REMEDY KNOWN. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is certainly the greatest medical remedy ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity. Thousands of once helpless sufferers, now loudly proclaim their praise for this wonderful discovery, which has saved their lives. Not only does it positively cure Consumption, but Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Hoarseness and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lungs yield at once to its wonderful curative power as if by magic. We do not ask you to buy a large bottle unless you know what you are getting, and therefore earnestly request you to call on your druggists, J. & C. McMahon, and get a trial bottle free of cost which will convince you of the truth of our wonderful merits, and show you what a regular one dollar size bottle will do. For sale by J. & C. McMahon. (4)

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Backache, Stomachache, Headache, Gout, Quinsy, Sore Throat, Burns and Scalds, General Bodily Pains, Tooth, Ear and Headache, Frosted Feet and Ears, and all other Pains and Aches.

EDUCATIONAL. Chicago proposes to have sewing taught in its public schools. There are now about forty lady students in the Harvard Annex.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

POETRY OF THE TIMES.

In the Nature of Things. If you had your choice, dear, Of all the sweets that make The world's devoted joys dear, Which would you take?

What a question this love, Like a sweet, Like a sweet, From the south mouth.

The New May Day. "Mother dear, please call me early," Sang a little maiden, dear, "For to-morrow 'll be the happiest day In my life, and you'll be here, And her brother chimed in thusly: "Father, listen, now see here, Don't call me till noon-to-morrow, I've been out a willin' bee!"

Being Stars. Twinkle, twinkle, little star, Search his head off—there you are; Hoop La Vegas, Santa Fe, Greedy Brady, out goes he.

HONEY FOR THE LADIES. Bonnets are again made to match suits. The Marie Antoinette is the newest round hat. Amber shell combs are best liked in large balls.

Tan colored kid gloves are worn with white costumes. "Biscuit," or almond-colored fashions are very popular. Broaded goods retain their favor, and many are in small designs.

Mull puffs are worn around the neck instead of frills or collars. Pretty neck scarfs are shown, with the ends worked in Irish point embroidery.

A variation on the old style of mantle has the sleeves and the ends cut in one piece. Crushed silken ruffs of exquisitely blended shades are seen upon corsets and bonnets.

Summer pokes and round hats are much larger than those intended for spring wear. Lace are now dyed to match exactly in color the material they are employed upon.

Neckties of white mull with polka dots are made up with hemstitched ends and no lace. A girl committed suicide at Delight, Ind., because her parents would not let her bang her hair.

A new transparent cotton stuff of a nankeen color is called sultan lawn. It is soft and very pretty. A beautiful pattern for a button is a devil playing on a tambourine with a background of stars behind him.

Bayonaise, heretofore only used for mourning, comes in pale blue, light pink, French gray, and other delicate shades. The porcupine straw hats do not meet with very great favor, but the rough-and-ready braids are in great demand.

Lace fans, so shaped as to suggest hymeneal torches, were carried by the bridesmaids at a New York wedding the other day.

The autograph fan is the latest invention. It is made of parchment, and distinguished by the fact that each lady writes her name on it.

Spring jackets for girls are long and have hoods. The material is Scotch, and the hood is lined with satin, brown, crimson, garnet, or blue-green.

It is useless for physicians to argue against short-sleeved dresses. The constitution of the United States says: "The right to bear arms shall not be interfered with."

"How is a married woman best addressed?" We don't know much about such matters, but it would seem safer to address her when her husband is away from home.

"In Love with a Painter" is the title of a recently published novel. Considering the season of the year the girl would have done better to have bestowed her affections upon a white-washer or carpet-beater.

A lady writes: "One thing which I think that ladies have a right to ask is that gentlemen in a horse car should keep their feet on the floor instead of rubbing the mud off of them against the dresses of the ladies as they pass in and out."

The coloring of hair has been almost abandoned this season, and it is rarely that a bleached blonde is seen. Hair is left as nature colored it and even gray hair is not concealed. The only decided fashion for dressing the hair this spring is the addition of curls to the coiffure. Bunches of curls are worn at the nape of the neck.

A bonnet with one string is one of the milliner novelties of this season. The string is long and wide, handsomely trimmed at the end, and is passed under the chin and attached to a pendant spray of flowers and ribbons on the other side, which does the duty of a string. The fashion of tying the bonnet strings at the back will be in vogue with summer bonnets.

Now that through fear of malaria stationary wash bowls are going out and the old-fashioned wash stands coming in, there appear pitchers that are wide of base and strong of handle and basins big enough for a baby's bath-tub, and it is the thing to have them decorated on a cream ground.

The black lace caps are very pretty, and will be in great demand when the warm weather approaches. The new city lace cap with hood lined with a delicate collar, a very valuable and delicate item.

The pretty and dainty-looking apron has been taking hold in favor, and become quite a favorite addition to an indoor dress. To young ladies they add a spice of coquetry, to young married ladies a domestic charm that is very attractive. The prettiest are of light German linen, embroidered with an artistic design, but they also look well made of any delicate material and trimmed with lace.

Two ladies, handsomely dressed, entered a car. A gentleman rose and offered one of them a seat. She said to the other lady: "Dear, you take it. I am very tired, but you are much more tired than I am." The other said: "No, dear, you look so weary, and I can't rob you of it." Then another gentleman rose, took the two seats, and one said: "What a lovely time we have had. I feel so much brighter for running out," while the other replied: "I haven't felt so well for ages. Shopping is a great pleasure. I'm all in a glow."

old love letters, pieces of jewelry, handkerchiefs, fans and things that no man looks the name of; all sorts of fresh-looking, light little articles that you could not catalogue, succeed in robbing the home club of the game. When the home club wins the umpire is a cultured gentleman and the opposing nine a combination of gifted young men who were temporarily unfortunate.

The maddest man in Nebraska is a saloon keeper at Lincoln. He had been buying lottery tickets, and some lottery "put up a job" on him by publishing a fictitious telegram in the local paper that the number held by him had drawn a $15,000 prize. His bar soon flew to the sky, and all the loafers in town got drunk at his expense. It was a very difficult matter to convince him that he had not drawn the prize, so strong was his faith in the lottery, but he will never again believe a word he sees in print.

A contemporary wishes to revise one portion of the New Testament as follows: If a man smite you on one cheek turn up the other; the other also send in a good one from the shoulder while he is off guard.

The miracle-performing priest at Erie, Pa., has been exposed by a press reporter. Now that he is shown to be a fraud, the people who announced themselves cured by him have all noticed a return of their old afflictions.

We have never seen a finer bit of sarcasm than the following: A little French boy, who is the child of saying his prayers before going to bed, the other night asked his mother: "Mamma, how long will it be before you are big enough to quit saying your prayers? You never say yours, do you?" And the mother said: "Let the boys shouldn't ask so many questions. Go to sleep, my child."

It is significant of the change which is going on over the European continent of life and morality that at the present moment nearly every legalizing divorce in Europe is more or less prolegatory to a marriage question. In Hungary they have just legalized the marriage of Jews and Christians, and are discussing the introduction of obligatory civil marriage. In Denmark a bill is pending which has been the rearrangement of divorced persons. In Spain the Sagasta ministry is busied about the re-establishment of the divorce law. Mr. Napier's bill for legalizing divorce was defeated a short time ago by the French chamber.

It is now dealing with the proposed legalizing of marriage of heathens, and their sister-law and the marriage of priests. In Italy the divorce question has been brought before the legislature by a proposal to separate the couple when the husband or wife has been condemned to penal servitude for life, and to convert a legal separation into a divorce when the husband or wife has been convicted of adultery, or when the husband or wife has been convicted of adultery, or when the husband or wife has been convicted of adultery.

WHAT WE HATE. We hate growling, no matter the source or cause, and recommend here with the remedy. Use St. Jacob's Oil and every time. It will do the work every time.—(St. Paul Pioneer Press.)

Almost Crazy. How often do we see the hardworking father straining every nerve and muscle, and doing his utmost to support his family. Imagine his feelings when he returns home from a hard day's labor, to find his family prostrate with disease, conscious of unpaid doctor's bills and debts on every hand. It is not enough to drive a man crazy. All his unhappiness could be avoided by using Electric Bitters, which expel every disease from the system, bringing joy and happiness to thousands. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by J. & C. McMahon. (4)

GREATEST REMEDY KNOWN. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is certainly the greatest medical remedy ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity. Thousands of once helpless sufferers, now loudly proclaim their praise for this wonderful discovery, which has saved their lives. Not only does it positively cure Consumption, but Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Hoarseness and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lungs yield at once to its wonderful curative power as if by magic. We do not ask you to buy a large bottle unless you know what you are getting, and therefore earnestly request you to call on your druggists, J. & C. McMahon, and get a trial bottle free of cost which will convince you of the truth of our wonderful merits, and show you what a regular one dollar size bottle will do. For sale by J. & C. McMahon. (4)

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Backache, Stomachache, Headache, Gout, Quinsy, Sore Throat, Burns and Scalds, General Bodily Pains, Tooth, Ear and Headache, Frosted Feet and Ears, and all other Pains and Aches.

EDUCATIONAL. Chicago proposes to have sewing taught in its public schools. There are now about forty lady students in the Harvard Annex.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

earnest, and the papers of various cities are filled with glowing accounts of how nine brutal ruffians from some other place, assisted by a depraved and blood-thirsty mob, succeeded in robbing the home club of the game. When the home club wins the umpire is a cultured gentleman and the opposing nine a combination of gifted young men who were temporarily unfortunate.

The maddest man in Nebraska is a saloon keeper at Lincoln. He had been buying lottery tickets, and some lottery "put up a job" on him by publishing a fictitious telegram in the local paper that the number held by him had drawn a $15,000 prize. His bar soon flew to the sky, and all the loafers in town got drunk at his expense. It was a very difficult matter to convince him that he had not drawn the prize, so strong was his faith in the lottery, but he will never again believe a word he sees in print.

A contemporary wishes to revise one portion of the New Testament as follows: If a man smite you on one cheek turn up the other; the other also send in a good one from the shoulder while he is off guard.

The miracle-performing priest at Erie, Pa., has been exposed by a press reporter. Now that he is shown to be a fraud, the people who announced themselves cured by him have all noticed a return of their old afflictions.

We have never seen a finer bit of sarcasm than the following: A little French boy, who is the child of saying his prayers before going to bed, the other night asked his mother: "Mamma, how long will it be before you are big enough to quit saying your prayers? You never say yours, do you?" And the mother said: "Let the boys shouldn't ask so many questions. Go to sleep, my child."

It is significant of the change which is going on over the European continent of life and morality that at the present moment nearly every legalizing divorce in Europe is more or less prolegatory to a marriage question. In Hungary they have just legalized the marriage of Jews and Christians, and are discussing the introduction of obligatory civil marriage. In Denmark a bill is pending which has been the rearrangement of divorced persons. In Spain the Sagasta ministry is busied about the re-establishment of the divorce law. Mr. Napier's bill for legalizing divorce was defeated a short time ago by the French chamber.

It is now dealing with the proposed legalizing of marriage of heathens, and their sister-law and the marriage of priests. In Italy the divorce question has been brought before the legislature by a proposal to separate the couple when the husband or wife has been condemned to penal servitude for life, and to convert a legal separation into a divorce when the husband or wife has been convicted of adultery, or when the husband or wife has been convicted of adultery, or when the husband or wife has been convicted of adultery.

WHAT WE HATE. We hate growling, no matter the source or cause, and recommend here with the remedy. Use St. Jacob's Oil and every time. It will do the work every time.—(St. Paul Pioneer Press.)

Almost Crazy. How often do we see the hardworking father straining every nerve and muscle, and doing his utmost to support his family. Imagine his feelings when he returns home from a hard day's labor, to find his family prostrate with disease, conscious of unpaid doctor's bills and debts on every hand. It is not enough to drive a man crazy. All his unhappiness could be avoided by using Electric Bitters, which expel every disease from the system, bringing joy and happiness to thousands. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by J. & C. McMahon. (4)

GREATEST REMEDY KNOWN. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is certainly the greatest medical remedy ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity. Thousands of once helpless sufferers, now loudly proclaim their praise for this wonderful discovery, which has saved their lives. Not only does it positively cure Consumption, but Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Hoarseness and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lungs yield at once to its wonderful curative power as if by magic. We do not ask you to buy a large bottle unless you know what you are getting, and therefore earnestly request you to call on your druggists, J. & C. McMahon, and get a trial bottle free of cost which will convince you of the truth of our wonderful merits, and show you what a regular one dollar size bottle will do. For sale by J. & C. McMahon. (4)

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Backache, Stomachache, Headache, Gout, Quinsy, Sore Throat, Burns and Scalds, General Bodily Pains, Tooth, Ear and Headache, Frosted Feet and Ears, and all other Pains and Aches.

EDUCATIONAL. Chicago proposes to have sewing taught in its public schools. There are now about forty lady students in the Harvard Annex.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

There is nothing that so takes the starch out of a young man, who has been wedded about a year, as to have to go to a store where there is a girl clerk that he used to keep company with, and inquire for those large-sized safety razors.

earnest, and the papers of various cities are filled with glowing accounts of how nine brutal ruffians from some other place, assisted by a depraved and blood-thirsty mob